

MURALIST BAYNE GARDNER MAKES A NEW DOWNTOWN DEBUT

(Eugene, OR) – Muralist Bayne Gardner, whose vibrant works beautify otherwise mundane spaces throughout the Eugene valley, will be making another downtown debut inside the creative offices of Revolution Design Group on Friday, March 24, and Monday, March 27 during normal business hours. Established in 2010, Revolution Design Group sees this new office addition as a representation of the future, and an opportunity to continue forging ahead after a long and steady post-COVID climb.

“Having our headquarters in downtown Eugene is an important piece of inspiration for us as designers and creatives,” said RDG Founder and Co-owner Jennifer Revaol. “After more than 14 years in business, this feels like a decisive moment for our team to celebrate the next chapter. We strive to stay inspired and create beautiful, quality work. This mural is indicative of that mission for us all, from interns to owners.”

Spotted inside Hayward Field, outside Autzen Stadium, at Pape Field, and more, Gardner’s prolific use of nature-inspired colors and shapes ranges from flowers and fish to Tracktown USA icons. This month, Gardner will add a sparrow to his collection. The 14-ft. by 16-ft. interior wall will feature the RDG sparrow icon depicting its message of unity, selflessness, and teamwork.

A woman and minority-owned full-service creative design agency, RDG services a diverse portfolio of clients in the healthcare and medical, food and beverage, and lifestyle industries, and provides web design and development, marketing, branding, digital marketing, and product and packaging design services.

Learn more about RDG at revolutiondesingroup.com, or stay connected on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, and Linkedin.