FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: 5/25/2023

PublicHouse celebrates Oregon Beer Award Medalists for Eugene Beer Week 2023: June 5-11.

What: This Eugene Beer Week, PublicHouse will host the very best in Oregon craft beer by featuring 26 taps dedicated exclusively to Oregon Beer Awards Medalists.

Taken from the Oregon Beer Awards website, First held in 2015, the Oregon Beer Awards have been honed over time to get where it is now, with rigorous standards, unique styles, and a wide audience. Since its inception the awards have existed with the same goal: to celebrate the art of Oregon Brewing and inspire innovation and growth in the industry. Unlike other beer competitions, the Oregon Beer Awards Style Guidelines are designed to keep categories competitive, and medal in styles that are meaningful to a consumer. Carefully curated by a committee of top brewers and beer influencers in the state, styles have evolved every year to reflect industry changes and strive to be as inclusive as possible. Oregon Beer Awards Co-Founder and author of The New School, Ezra Johnson-Greenhough, writes, "The academy awards of Oregon beer were announced at the Oregon Beer Awards ceremony at Revolution Hall in Portland, Oregon on April 6th, 2023. In 30 categories, 1,113 beers were entered by 126 brewing companies and 56 of them took home medals. In addition to the double-blind judged beer competition presided over by 88 judges over the course of 6 days of judging, there were another 8 awards in non-beer judged categories that were voted on by the OBA academy of over 300 industry peers."
